JACK NICKLAUS

GOLF & COURSE DESIGN

- The only 256-color Course Designer
- The fastest redraw of screens after every shot
- The most realistic and easiest-to-use interface
- The most complete Tour statistics
- Beautiful 256-color rendering of two Tour courses
- The digitized swing of Jack himself
- The widest variety of golf shots

Another Win For Nicklaus

Other golf games may look this good, but nothing has as many features or is as much fun to play as Jack Nicklaus Golf & Course Design: Signature Edition.™

Wait until you get your hands on the all-new 256-color Course Designer where you can create super-realistic courses in incredible detail.

And the super-fast, super-easy, multi-feature gameplay gives you the most complete computer golf experience.

DESIGN

Create your own signature courses — with spectacular objects and backgrounds — down to the finest, most dazzling 256-color detail.

- Gorgeous 256-color VGA courses — Digitized horizons, trees and objects; fully-contoured, smoothly bit-mapped fairways, greens and bunkers.
- New 256-color Course Designer — Edit or design in 256 blazing colors. Create a hole, play it instantly.
- New Tournament option — Compete against the best, including Jack.
- Two new Pro Tour courses — Not just one course, two great ones. Plus stunning new 256-color Course Disks are on the way.
- Amazing realism — digitized sound effects, crowd noises and music, varying club trajectories, animated flagstick, real rolls and bounces.

PLAY

Challenge two of Jack's finest course designs — lush English Turn Golf Club (New Orleans), home of the USF&G Classic, and rugged Sherman Country Club (Thousand Oaks, CA), site of the Ronald McDonald-Greg Norman Tour event.

Jack On Green

How do you get the real Jack Nicklaus on a computer screen?

First you videotape the Bear inside a Florida studio, swinging each golf club against a large fabric background called a "Green Screen." The green screen lets you electronically "cut out" Jack from surrounding images.

The animation is then scanned into the computer, "pasted" onto a bit-mapped course, and touched up to perfection.

Someone is kidnapping the hippest stars in Hollywood from Madonna to LaFonda Turner. Now Les Manley must scour La La Land — sifting through out-of-work actors, rock stars and gorgeous babes — to unravel the mystery.

Les Manley in Lost in L.A.™ It's the incredibly graphic sequel to Search for The King™. It's packed full of special effects, particularly the use of real actors and models, and driven by a completely new, 100% point-and-click interface.

According to designer Steve Cartwright it's the closest Accolade has come to making a movie.

Like a Virgin? — Get hip with Madonna in a seamless mix of digitized video and bit-mapped graphics.

ITKA Beats Up
the Competition

- Superb 256-color VGA graphics featuring beautiful digitized actresses and gorgeous scenery
- Real L.A. locations from Hollywood Boulevard to Rodeo Drive to the mansions of Mulholland Drive and the pectorals of Venice Beach

- Rockin' L.A. Soundtrack with total music & sound board support
- Easy enough for a first-timer to play, but still challenging enough for graphic adventure experts
- Cool character scaling with full animation

Hotel California — 100% point & click interface. So easy, even this Moe could do it.

Real People

Characters are what really set Lost in L.A. apart. All main characters are played by real people.

"We looked for professional models," says producer Sam Nelson, "who could capture the personalities of our characters." An Accolade employee found the Les actor in a bar. Others were found in Playboy®.

"Some of these models hold such titles as Miss Body Beautiful International," Nelson says. "I think the results will be very gratifying to people who play Lost in L.A."

Mike Ditka Ultimate Football is a trademark of Accolade, Inc.

Superior graphics. Super-realistic gameplay. More options. That's how Mike Ditka Ultimate Football™ kicks butt and takes names. It's the perfect balance of action and strategy with total control.

But hey, don't take our word for it. Check out the graphics. The animation. The sounds. The features. This baby delivers big hits, fast action and NFL-style strategy.

Iron Mike — Hall of Fame tight end and Super Bowl-winning head coach of the Chicago Bears.

The Boris Touch

Fantasy illustration has been around for many years, but only recently has it been elevated to a finer art — in no small part to the incredible talent of Boris Vallejo, whose art is featured on the package of Ultimate Football.

The Peruvian-born Boris has an uncanny ability to present the human body in an extraordinary variety of fantastic forms and poses — but football?

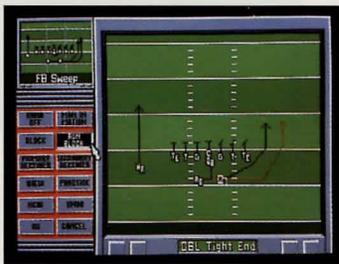

Boris, however, was delighted with the opportunity and the challenge to paint a subject outside of the fantasy genre. The result is a powerful image of light and motion that makes a dynamic package — and an even better 38" x 26" poster.

- Catch the big and bold 256-color VGA graphics with stunning player animation
- Compete in a 17-week schedule, Championship Playoffs, or just play a single game against a friend. If you really feel lucky, take on Mike himself
- Choose any one of 28 pro teams or create your own
- Change your players' names, numbers, strength, speed, skill — even the colors of their uniforms

The Ultimate Kicking game — “Field goals? Heck, my new kicking bar will turn you into a big-legged Lithuanian in no time.”*

The Ultimate Playbook Editor — “OK, genius, modify one of my 132 plays or design your own.”*

The Ultimate Instant Replay — “Replay your moments of glory from four different angles.”*

What's in a box?

Elvira® was released last year with great hopes. The game was an instant hit in Europe, but took months to hit its stride in the U.S.

The problem? Perception. Elvira I's package featured a provocative photo of the Mistress of the Dark™. Unfortunately, role-playing enthusiasts took her "B-movie persona" at face value and thought it might be shallow.

But players soon leaked the truth — Elvira was a great game. Sales took off, and Computer Gaming World named it Role Playing Adventure of the Year.

Therefore, the focus for the sequel's package is adventure. D&D® artist Jeff Easley rendered the art. His amazing three-headed cerberus makes a package — and a poster — that now speaks directly to gamers on both sides of the Atlantic.

Something Wicked This Way Comes

How do you follow Elvira®: Mistress of the Dark,™ recently named role-playing adventure of the year by Computer Gaming World? If you're the designers at HorrorSoft Ltd., you make an adventure that's even bigger and better and call it Elvira® II: The Jaws of Cerberus.™

This time an evil force has penetrated our dimension, possessing Black Widow Productions in Hollywood. The studio owner, Elvira herself, has vanished. And now three cavernous movie sets — a graveyard, haunted house and catacombs — are erupting with the most hideous monsters of gothic horror.

Your quest? Find and rescue Elvira from these craven worlds then fight a final cataclysmic battle with a nether-world entity of awesome fury.

- State-of-the-art 256-color VGA graphics
- Completely icon driven — Fast, intuitive Point & Click
- Nearly 4,000 locations — five times larger than Elvira!
- More than 700 deadly weapons — scrolls & tools of the trade to find and use
- New on-screen Spell Book Generator — Twice the number of spells as Elvira; mix and cast instantly, even in combat
- New on-screen, 360-degree Enemy Detector — Know instantly about pending attacks
- Haunting soundtrack — And graphics that will appeal to both Graphic Adventure players and Role Playing fans

All new Hit Point Allocation System — Real-time combat gets even more realistic with improved damage scoring.

Formidable new opponents — Hundreds of creatures to battle including skeleton warriors, flying bats, mummies, and orcs.

Three fantastic worlds — Sinister "back lots" including a graveyard, haunted house, and catacombs.

Downhill Madness

Who could resist a plunge down the sheer face of a mountain past gates eight feet apart, at seventy, even eighty miles per hour?

The Downhill is a daredevil's passion that dates back centuries in the Alps. Inspired by Englishman Arnold Lunn, the first official downhill race took place in 1911 in Montana, Switzerland.

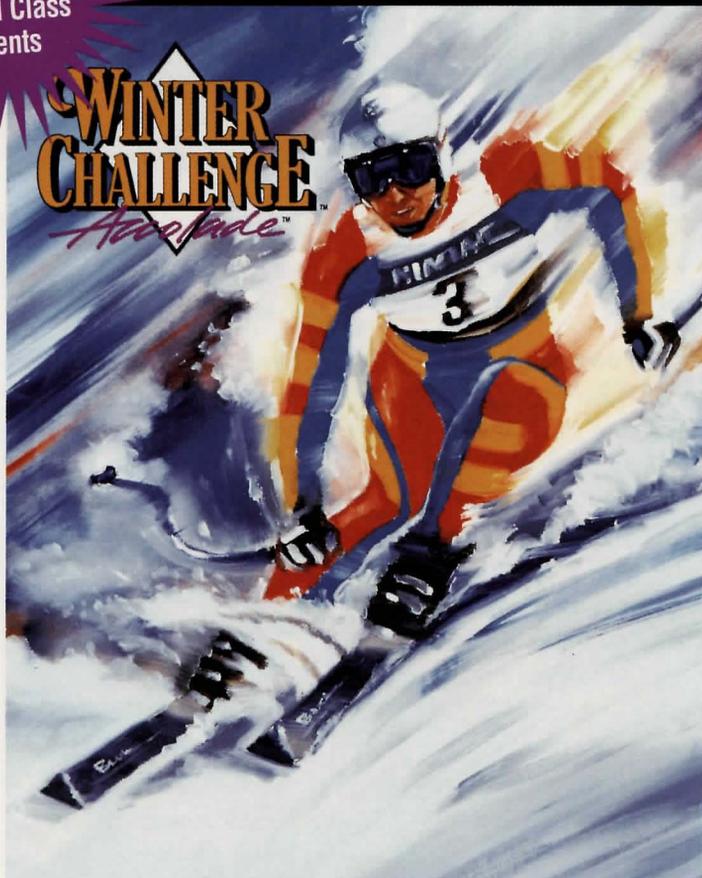

Governed by the International Ski Federation since 1924, the race was liberated in the 30's by the invention of rope tows. At last skiers could save energy for the race instead expending it on a climb to the top. The rest is history.

Since the 30's, the sport has had many equipment changes. But one thing hasn't changed: flying down a chute with a vertical drop of 1000 meters remains the most dangerous form of skiing.
