Revised Data on Dealing with a CYBORG

To access the CYBORG half of your mind, simply type "OPINION". This will gain you access to additional information that may not be readily apparent.

Since NASA II is not monitoring or evaluating your actions, your participation and relative success is totally subjective. Score, in this simulation, is a useless, alien concept. All NASA II cares about is the completion of the mission. Complete it and don't worry about score.

Your CYBORG half understands plain English. Whenever you see (>), your CYBORG half is waiting for instructions. When you have finished typing your instructions, press "RETURN".

Your instructions must contain a verb and a noun. For example:

PICK UP THE BEAKER. DROP THE BEAKER

Instructions may also contain indirect objects. For example:

FEED THE APPLE TO THE LIZARD. DROP THE BOTTLE ON THE SCALE.

Separate multiple objects of a verb with the word AND or a comma. For example:

PICK UP THE SCALES, THE CRYSTAL AND THE LASER.

Several sentences may be placed on the same instruction line. Separate them with the word THEN or a period. Always place a space between a period and the next sentence. Your last command need not end with a period. For example:

GET THE PACK THEN GO WEST. HEAD EAST. BIO SCAN

Travel Commands

To move from one location to another, type the direction you want to go. For example:

NORTH, SOUTH, EAST, WEST, NORTHEAST,
SOUTHEAST, NORTHWEST, SOUTHWEST, UP AND DOWN.

You may abbreviate these directions N, S, E, W, NE, SE, NW, SW, U and D.

The first time you enter a location, you will receive a detailed description. When you return to the location, you will receive a brief description.

CYBORG Commands

AREA SCAN

Your location will be described in detail.

BIO SCAN

Gives you a status report on your physical and mechanical condition.

BODY SCAN

Presents you with a list of all the objects you are wearing or carrying.

FULL SCAN

You will receive an Area Scan, Bio Scan and Body Scan with one command.

HELP

Supplies you with general information to assist you in your quest.

QUIT

Allows you to quit playing.

SAVE

Allows you to save a game position on your storage disk. Simply follow CYBORG's directions after entering this command. Use a blank (initialized) disk as your storage disk. Each storage disk will hold 79 saved games.

RESTORE

Allows you to restore any game position you saved with the SAVE command.
