3DO™

Dear Fellow Gamer,

My name is Trip Hawkins and I am totally committed to gaming. That's why I started 3DO, where it is our mission to bring people the best games in the world.

We're not going to do what everyone else is doing. When we commit to do something, we're going to do it the way we think is right, and not worry about the almighty dollar. The game is first. We will focus on gameplay, because that's what makes a game fun. We're passionate about the details. All we want to do is make the best games every time out, and then make the next one even better.

Our games will reflect my philosophy that great games must be simple, hot, and deep. Games must be approachable and easy to get into. You must be able to make things happen and start enjoying yourself immediately. They need to look great, sound great, and get you excited. And they need to be deep so that no matter how often you come back there is more to discover and master.

And we can make this commitment to you because we are going to do it all ourselves within our own internal studios, where we have complete control over quality. We care, because we're gamers, too. I'm not going to let us make any game unless I personally want to play it, and we won't release it until I'm happy with it. Everyone at 3DO shares that passion. The heartbeat of gaming beats a little bit harder at 3DO.

We're here to play™
